The Tourist Season in South Florida.

The tourist season has begun with a vengeance and nearly every train brings dozens of tourists to Florida. The Southern portion of the state is filled up fast with this itinerant population and the sidewalks and drive-ways are filled with the "sight seeing hordes," whose sharp eyes nothing escapes. And really they do seem to get so much enjoyment out of life, and do so heartily appreciate seeing what is to be seen, that one actually envies their happy care-free lives and here to-day and gone to-morrow existences.

It is always easy for a native to "spot" a tourist, for they come in from the fields and by-ways, loaded down with what appears to be the most useless and ugly weeds and rubbish, that can be found anywhere. The girls invariably drape their hats with long festoons of Spanish moss, which, if they only knew it, is full of ants and bugs of different kinds. The old ladies generally have plants of various kinds, consisting mostly of saw palmetto and Spanish bayonet, the men's pockets generally bulge out with oranges given them at some packing house.

And speaking of oranges—what a delight the groves of South Florida are getting to be. The beautiful fruit is turning now from radiant green to shining gold, and the crop this year is immense. Even tiny trees whose limbs are too slender to hold the heavy fruit are propped up under their weight.

Crowds of men are now at work in the groves picking and packing oranges, and it almost seems as if the "freeze" which caused nearly every South Floridian great loss and misfortune, was only a passing dream, and that these beautiful groves had sprung up very quickly to take the place of those which, in one night, withered and died, causing the loss of thousands of dollars to the people of the state, whose main dependence they were.

Still the people of South Florida will never again pin their faith to the orange grove, and really they are now only a secondary consideration as the thriving gardens on all sides will testify.

Rows and rows of dark green strawberry plants white with blooms, are in evidence and great tender heads of lettuce, and cucumber vines, yellow with bloom, so far to prove that the "Florida cracker" has at last realized the wonderful facilities of the soil upon which his home stands, the orange grove now being only a valuable part of the whole.

Burke-Bazzell Wedding To-Night.

Miss Jennett Bazzell, daughter of the late Commodore Wm. Bazzell and Mrs. Sarah Bazzell, of this city, will be married tonight at eight o'clock at the home of her mother on West Garden street, to Mr. Harry Burke, formerly of Glasgow, Ky., but now a resident of Pensacola.

Miss Bazzell has lived in Pensacola all of her life and has many friends, who wish her great happiness. She is a bright and attractive young lady and is noted for her sweetness of disposition.

Mr. Burke is a recent acquisition to this city, but during his short stay has made many friends, especially among

NIP IT IN THE BUD.

First Appearance of Dandruff a Fore-runner of Future Baldness.

That such is the case has been conclusively proven by scientific research, Prof. Uma, the noted European skin specialist, declares that dandruff is the burrowed-up cuticle of the scalp, caused by parasites destroying the vitality in the hair bulb. The hair becomes lifeless, and, in time, falls out. This can be prevented.

Newbro's Herpicide kills this dandruff germ, and restores the hair to its natural softness and abundance. Herpicide is now used by thousands of people—all satisfied that it is the most wonderful hair preparation on the market to-day.

For sale by W. A. D'Alemberte, Druggist and Apothecary, 121 South Palafox street, or send to in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

DINNER OR THEATRE GOWN OF SILK AND LACE.

The illustration shows a gown which would be suitable for any evening affair at which a low-neck gown is not required. The skirt, which was of pale blue taffeta figured with a flower pattern, was finished around the bottom with a deep hem of pale blue velvet and a pale blue pink, which repeats the color of the flower pattern. The upper part of the skirt was cut with circular sides, the tops of which were tucked to curve about the hips, a fitted tucked girdle being attached in princess effect. The bodice was trimmed with wide bands of heavy lace arranged in bolero effect, the underbodice being of pale blue chiffon. The top of the sleeves was of tucked chiffon, the edge of the sleeves and the jacket being finished with silk ball fringe. Pale blue velvet bows were used on the front of the bodice and on the sleeves.

For the present the young people will make their home at the Almira Inn, corner of Garden and Baylen streets.

Little Miss Whiting Gives Birthday Party.

About ten of the tiny friends of little Carolyn Whiting, have received invitations to a birthday party to be given by the little girl's grandmother, Mrs. Clara Whiting, to celebrate the first year that Carolyn has spent in this great big world.

The party will be from three o'clock until about half after four Friday afternoon and it is to be hoped that the guests will refrain from putting their little pink toes in their mouths or grabbing the one lone candle off of the big birthday cake, which will surely be in evidence.

Carolyn is a dear, pretty little thing, and will do all in her power to entertain her guests.

The Misses Rosasco Have Returned Home.

Miss Anna and Miss Adah Rosasco, the lovely daughters of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Rosasco, have returned from their trip abroad.

These young ladies have had a most delightful trip which has lasted nearly two years, and which gave them excellent educational advantages. Miss Adah, who is well known as a violinist of great ability, will return to New York after the first of January and re-enter the conservatory of music.

The young ladies stopped over for a few hours to visit their sister, Miss Edna Rosasco, who is a student at the Agnes Scott Institute.

THANKSGIVING DINNER FOR FLORIDA GIRLS.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Beckwith gave a delightful little Thanksgiving dinner to the Florida girls at St. Mary's school, Raleigh, N. C., last Thursday.

The dinner was given at the attractive Cafe Girasole, and the table was beautifully decorated with pink and white chrysanthemums, which the girls wore afterwards to the basketball game between the two school teams.

The host and hostess made the occasion as homelike as possible, and every moment of the time was enjoyed by the pretty coterie of guests, who included Misses Florence Beckwith, Margaret Williams and Alice Munterlyn, of Jacksonville; Miss May Hoke, of Jensen, and Miss Jane Stillman, of Pensacola.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. Rob. Jordan, of New Orleans, is in the city visiting old friends.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. de la Rua met with quite a serious accident yesterday. The little fellow fell from his carriage and in some manner fell upon a buckle which was on the strap of his carriage and ran

NO MEDICINE But Change of Food Gave Final Relief.

Most diseases start in the alimentary canal—stomach and bowels. A great deal of our stomach and bowel troubles come from eating too much starchy and greasy food.

The stomach does not digest any of the starchy food we eat—white bread, pastry potatoes, oats, etc.—these things are digested in the small intestines, and if we eat too much, as most of us do, the organs that should digest this kind of food are overcome by excess of work, so that fermentation, indigestion, and a long train of ailments result.

Too much fat also is hard to digest and this is changed into acids, sour stomach, belching gas, and a bloated, heavy feeling.

In these conditions a change from indigestible foods to Grape-Nuts will work wonders in not only relieving the distress but in building up a strong digestion, clear brain and steady nerves. A Wash. woman writes:

"About five years ago I suffered with bad stomach—dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation—caused, I know from eating starchy and greasy food. I doctored for two years without any benefit. The doctor told me there was no cure for me. I would not eat anything without suffering severe pains in my back and side, and I became discouraged.

"A friend recommended Grape-Nuts and I began to use it. In less than two weeks I began to feel better and inside of two months I was a well woman and have been ever since.

"I can eat anything I wish with pleasure. We eat Grape-Nuts and cream for breakfast and are very fond of it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

was captured by the hostess. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Geo. Hoffman at her hospitable home, 803 East Belmont street.

Mrs. B. S. Bernard and son returned to their home in Pensacola yesterday. Mrs. Beatrice Marcan, of Ocala, Mrs. Bernard's mother, will join her and her sister, Mrs. Owens, some time before Christmas and will make her home with them in future.

Miss Lizzie Ambrose, of Palatka, Fla., is the guest of her sister, Mrs. R. L. Bryans. She will remain several weeks.

AMUSEMENTS.

"Isle of Spice."

Leslie Leigh, Harry Griffith, Jack Leslie, W. H. McGraw, Blanche Holt, and Minnie Chomaler head the cast of principals of the "Isle of Spice" company, which comes here almost direct from a long and most successful run at the Majestic Theatre, New York City. The company numbers sixty people in all, and is said to be remarkable for the unusually large number of really pretty young women. The chorus and ensemble work of the "Isle of Spice" have also been the subject of much favorable criticism. The organization will be presented here at the opera house Friday night.

"At Yale."

Mr. Paul Gilmore will be seen here Saturday night in his new play, "At Yale." The Roanoke Times has the following to say about the attraction: "As the name indicates, it is a college play on the order of 'Strongheart,' and some of the others, but still there is sufficient difference to lend novelty, and it is full of interest and action from start to finish. The new play gives Mr. Gilmore a chance to display his wonderful versatility to a more marked degree than any in which he has been seen here. There is a vein of comedy running through the piece that is delightful, and is carried out with admirable exactness.

"The supporting company and stage setting were all that the play required, and added very much to the production." Mr. McClain, as Dave Burleigh, the man who tried to win the girl, and used every effort both fair and foul to do so, was well played and the frequent hisses that greeted his appearance showed that he had made himself a thorough villain. "Mr. Gilmore has scored another success, and the large audience last night attested its approval of his role. He did not let up until he had come out and made a little speech which was neat and to the point. He is assured of a cordial welcome every time he comes to Roanoke."

Ben. Dunham's Exhibition. Little Miss Stone will entertain you with the great Dunham's at the opera house Monday, Dec. 10. Don't miss it. An elaborate program has been arranged.
